A THOUGHT FOR THE EPIPHANY OF THE LORD

Today we celebrate the Epiphany, or Manifestation, of Our Lord to the Three Kings, often called the Three Wise Men, and of course the Magi, who represent the Gentile, or non-Jewish races, such as ourselves. Although of great importance in their own land, these men humbly fell down, offered gifts and worshipped the King of kings. Their behaviour showed that they recognised that they were in the Presence of God. What might we learn from their attitude? Do other people who see us in church, perhaps outside Mass times, sense that we are conscious of the Presence of God in the Tabernacle, and of our fellow parishioners who seek a quiet atmosphere in which they may meditate and pray, free of distraction? Are our precious young parishioners, the adults of the future, and therefore, potential parents, priests and religious, being set a good example as to the way that we should make use of this sacred space? Are they inspired and filled with a sense of the uniqueness of the House of God? Parents, as the first teachers of their children, are in the forefront of this education in and practice of, the Faith. Children need to become familiar with the church and the Mass from as early an age as possible. Part of their formation in the Faith will, indeed, involve developing and understanding the need for reverence in church; however, parents must be supported in this task. Are we all playing our own part through our good example? Do we, like the Three Wise Men, demonstrate our loving awareness of God's Presence.
